Understanding the Match Editor

Although the Match Wizard does a lot of the work for matching, there are some things that you must configure yourself. The basic match setup created by the Match Wizard may require customization to meet the goals of your project. You can edit the options in the transform that is generated by the Match Wizard using the Match Editor. Match transforms can be modified or manually configured using the Match Editor. This enables you to set up and modify match strategies in a single screen.
